City Collectors' Paintings Too Small for Large Space

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

Last week there was not space to go into details of the "Victoria Collectors" contribution to the present showing at the gallery, but a second study of any exhibition produces a more leisured and balanced appraisal.

The paintings are, on a whole, too small to show up well in the largest gallery, they need more intimate grouping as they were painted in an age when meticulous finish and attention to detail was more appreciated.

But, a small painting by Sir David Wilkie holds its own by its freshness and beauty of technique. A Turner sketch is so full of vigor and one might almost say fury, that it cannot be overlooked.

Other small ones of great beauty are "Farm Scene" by Samuel Palmer which was probably a study for one of his important paintings. The Homer Watson is rich in feeling and in quality of paint. George Richmond's portrait study is a tenderly felt painting of a little girl in the best manner of this distinguished Royal Academician.

Octavius Oakley had his place in the art of the Victorian era and Herbert Finn is remembered as a painter of London in all her moods.

J. W. Morrice helped to put Canadian painting on the map in the early days. He brought back from Paris what were then advanced ideas on the use of color and freer brushwork. There are two good examples of his landscapes in oils.

We seldom see the water colors of F. M. Bell-Smith, but 50 years ago he was one of the most popular of Canadian painters.

Maurice Cullen, like Morrice, interpreted the Canadian scene with a freshness and vigor that was new and stimulating at a time when the "treacle school" still held sway. This can be seen in his two oils of Quebec and vicinity.

The water color by C. John Colling's I find disappointing by comparison with much of his smaller work which possesses a jewel-like quality all its own.

In the contemporary section the nude by Peter Aspell of Vancouver steals the show with its lovely color and sensitive handling of line. This artist has come far in the last few years.

There are vigorous paintings by Henri Masson, Jack Shadbolt and Herbert Siebner and Sir William Russell Flint ably represents the British school with his large and deftly-handled water color.

But, I return with pleasure to Franklin Carmichael's painting, so solidly composed, so well controlled in its color movement.

Like J. E. H. MacDonald, A. Y. Jackson, Arthur Lismer and A. H. Robinson, who are all represented, he was at one time a member of the Group of Seven. Being obliged to support his large family by his work as a commercial artist in Winnipeg, he did not have much time to devote to his landscape and other work which has been a loss to Canadian art.

Honolulu Holdup

Red Tape Delays Extradition Effort

HONOLULU (AP)—A Rumanian seaman, held for Vancouver, B.C., police in a slaying case, may be detained in this city's 101-year-old jail from a month to 18 months, it was learned.

Konstantin Dumitru, 39, a crew member of the Finnish freighter Kolsholma, was arrested Sunday on a United States' warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice.

"I am not a murderer," Dumitru said Monday at a preliminary hearing. He indicated he would fight extradition on a charge of killing a Vancouver bartender March 5.

The U.S. warrant for Dumitru's arrest was issued at the request of Police Inspector Archie Plummer, who is here to return Dumitru to Vancouver.

It was expected to take at least a month to get the necessary papers in order. Plummer's immediate plans were not known.

Batista Judge Shot By Firing Squad

HAVANA (AP) — Firing squads shot a former high-ranking judge and two men who served in Fulgencio Batista's armed forces Tuesday, raising to 426 the unofficial total of executions since Fidel Castro's revolution triumphed Jan. 1.

Aristides Perez Andreau, a veteran of 36 years on the Cuban bench, died at Pinar del Rio, in western Cuba. An ex-soldier and a former seaman were executed at Santiago, in the east.

Perez Andreau had been charged with collaborating with Maj. Esteben Ventura, fugitive former national police official whom the revolutionary government calls "the torturer of the Batista regime." Cuba seeks Ventura's extradition from the Dominican Republic.

Imperial Expands Edmonton Refinery

EDMONTON (CP) — A $2,400,000 expansion program at the Imperial Oil Limited refinery in Edmonton was announced Wednesday.

Under the project, the alkylation unit will be built to turn petroleum gases into a rich octane component of gasolines.

Tenders for construction have been called with a view to having construction in progress by September and the plant ready for operation by April, 1960.

Alkylate is added to gasolines to increase their resistance to engine knock.
